Test training

Before we can seriously allocate a new kid to a group, we need to see her/him in a test training to analyse the current level of play. After the training we have a clear view and can make a professional training recommendation and group allocation. Parents should always wait for the coach at the entrance to the tennis courts, they will come for you and guide you to the court. Test trainings are not free of charge.

Group lessons allocations

We're expecting full trust and respect from the parents regarding our group allocations. All our kids play during the week with stronger, even and weaker players in the group for the important reason of a good balance. We always take full responsibility for a positive development, which is only possible if parents accept our allocations and our training methodology. Elements of group trainings are not only to play points, but also to practice situations and strokes from the basket. Please see details about our philosophy and our programs at our website www.bozovictennisacademy.com.

Coaches and responsibility

Each player has it's own head coach, who communicates with the other coaches after each training session. When kids train with two or more coaches, the coaches share their feedback and what they did in the previous training in detail. All the questions are asked by the responsible coach related to your kid or Bojan Bozovic who follows everything.

Communication with coaches

Good communication and trust are very important if we want to build a good relationship and have results. However, for the respect of a high quality training for all our players, we can only talk to you during the training of your own kid and never while the other kids have a lesson. If there is an important topic that needs to be communicated, you can always get in touch with the responsible coach in the evening or in the morning when he or she is not on the court.

Group lessons in school holidays

All our group lessons are based on the official holiday schedule of the city of Zurich. In those periods our group trainings will not take place. The only exception is, if members (parents) of a group get together directly and decide to have another holiday date for a paid group training. In that case it is necessary to inform us at least 2 weeks in advance of a related holiday period.

Intensive weeks

During the official school holidays of the city of Zurich there won't be any group courses. Instead of it we always organise our famous intensive weeks with some special package prices. We will approach everyone some weeks before to sign up for this kind of intense trainings and offer this great opportunity to very attractive prices. Kids work with all coaches and give a daily feedback, always one coach is responsible and he shares the feedback and player related information. We use those intensive weeks to increase the volume of training and to integrate new kids in the academy.

Going with players on tournaments

All players who train more than 6h tennis per week in our academy, incl. private lessons, are having the right to be monitored 5 times during the year. However, we go when we think it is necessary or if a player has a problem in his game to support him and to assure a positive development.

Tournament news

When you send us tournament news you also need to send our manager Sascha Rudolph a brief information by E-mail about when and where it took place and also a pic from your kid after the winners' ceremony. We will then publish a short article about it on our website and on social medias.

Using the phone in the trainings

Kids are not allowed to use their mobile phone in a training. Our coaches only use it in the case they need to answer questions about your child or if we have emergencies related to classes that day. They further only use it when the players warm up or collect balls, which means a few minutes before and/or after training.
